If you folks agree that the traffic lights are damn nuisances, that they are wasteful of rubber and gasoline and that most of them should be discontinued—as they have been done in Corinth, Houston, etc.—then tell your alderman and your Mayor.

The MacDowell Musicale is going to sponsor a program at GHS Friday the 9th, at which only military talent will be used. You can come in free, or you will have an opportunity to buy a four bit war stamp.

It is the UWSPOA now, as I predicted.

Fishing and lying will start soon.

We mailed out statements to our dear delinquents in the city and county Monday. We do not want to cut any one off without due notice. Money or a good excuse will suffice. But bring or send something. Hams will be accepted.

By the indulgence of our creditors and by good luck, the GCW got by another first of the month.

At the present time Isenberg, Dyre-Kent, Grenada Drug, Corner Drug, Friedman and The Stag handle the stock stationery that we produce. We prefer that you buy the stock stuff at one of those places. We can handle any special job for you boys.

Aint these nurses uniforms nifty.

Drew Pearson and I predict that the Main Company will soon finish its assignment here and move on to other fields, only Drew Pearson does not know his name is being used.

The reason Captain Waite is looking so sad and downcast is that his wife, who has been with him over a month, is returning to Jacksonville.

Mrs. J. A. Harrington, of New Orleans, has been added to the mailing list. She lives on a street I cannot pronounce or spell either.

Talking about money floating around, I predict there will be more money spent here Saturday and Sunday than ever before.

Several of our acquaintances from Greenwood were here Sunday afternoon to see a train.

Big Chick, otherwise Pvt. Chas. E. Lockett, now at Keesler Field, is receiving the GCW. I hope this will not be information valuable to the enemy.

Montgomery and Eisenhower have about got the old fox, Rommel, holed.

Posey Gant is now in Sheppard Field, Texas, and I hope that this will not confuse and confound the enemy.

One white renter said he could not see why all renters were not for Mike Conner, who relieved them of taxes on their mules, cattle and wagons.

All her friends are sorry that Mrs. Jesse Whitten recently sustained a broken hip. Jesse said he is boss now for the first time in over 50 years.

Aint they sweet.

They say that Grandpaw Mims spends most of his time spoiling his new grandchild.

Had a long, interesting and thoughtful article from one of our Greenwood subscribers, Oscar Bledsoe, III recently.

We ask that all the out of county subscribers look at their expiration dates on their copies, and do the proper thing. We did not have time to notify any of them as we did those in the city and county.

Damn these traffic lights which are wasteful of time, energy, rubber, patience, gasoline and brake linings.

Somebody in Washington is going to have to draw a fine line between the needs of the civilians and the needs of the armed forces. We civilians must be kept going so that we can produce goods and taxes.

Those who fail to read Vollies ads, written by Mr. Cottingham, miss some rare old homespun philosophy. His form of advertising, neither using prices nor names of merchandise, is unique in Grenada.

Negroes are funny. One was in Mr. Salter's house recently and saw the picture of Sir Walter Raleigh, and asked Mr. Salter "Is dat your papa, Mr. Salter?" A country negro woman worked for Mabel last week cleaning house. Looking up at a framed picture of George Washington, she asked, "Is that Miss Eva?" (who was my mother).

Dave Dogan Makes Bid For Third Full Term

Dave W. Dogan, veteran of the sheriff's office, who has served two full terms and the unexpired term of the late Dave Beck, asked us to announce that he would seek election in the August primaries.

Since he finished his last term as sheriff in early 1940, he has been part of the city "law", being night man at the city hall. Dave is an ex-Color Sergeant in the "home" company in World War No. 1, having volunteered, even though he was over the draft age.

Everybody in Grenada county knows Dave Dogan and knows that he has yet to be defeated for public office, except when he ran for City Marshal in 1940. They know his kindness and his virtues, as well as his faults, and know that the former greatly outweigh the latter.

Everybody in Grenada county knows Dave Dogan, so what's the use in us saying anything more?

Lieutenants Alex Rebik and Charles F. Cook, Jr., of the Grenada Army Air Base, were enlisted buddies serving in Greenland but a few months ago.

Last September they returned to the States to enter the Quartermaster Officer Candidate School at Camp Lee, Virginia. Both were commissioned second lieutenants the same day.

The inseparables immediately were assigned to I Troop Carrier Command. In January, Lieutenants Rebik and Cook came to the Grenada Army Air Base.

Last Saturday morning, Lieutenant Cook received an announcement of his promotion to first lieutenant from the Adjutant General. Is Ripley still interested? Yes. For the afternoon mail brought a similar announcement to Lieutenant Ribek.

Both officers live in Ohio.

Pressgrove To Announce Soon

Mr. John P. Pressgrove states that he is a definite candidate for re-election as Chancery Cerk, but will defer formal announcement until a little later.

Announces For Re-Election Highway Commissioner

Mr. Lowry's formal announcement appears on the first page of the second section.

HON. T. J. LOWRY

A. W. Mullen Seeks Supervisorship In District Five

Mr. A. W. Mullen, well known and respected citizen who lives on his farm a few miles south of Holcomb in Beat Five, has authorized the Grenada County Weekly to open up the Beat Five column with his name and to state that he is going to make a vigorous and fair campaign for the most important office of supervisor.

This is Mr. Mullen's second venture into the realms of politics, as he was a candidate for the same office in 1939, and made a fine, if unsuccessful race.

He and his people have been identified with that area since the memory of the oldest man runneth not to the contrary. His father died there. His brothers and sisters now live there.

In the race in 1939, Mr. Mullen received 106 votes in a four-handed race running second to the incumbent who was re-elected.

He feels that, if elected, he could carry the experience which has permitted him to rear a family and make some material progress in worldly affairs, into the council chambers of the county, and use those talents for the benefit of his people back in Beat Five.

He intends to prosecute his campaign with vigor and be there pitching until the votes are counted.

The GCW bespeaks for him among his people a thorough analysis of his capability and for an opportunity for him to discuss with them the issues.

War Jobs Available For Graduates of Local Schools

Men and women, high school seniors, and all boys sixteen years of age and older are given a last opportunity to enroll in either Aircraft Sheetmetal and Riveting or Machine Shop Practice, operated through Grenada City Schools. After local needs in aircraft and war manufacturing plants are filled both schools will be closed. It is expected that these needs will be met within the next two months. Those enrolling in the near future will be able to complete the training and be recommended for local jobs awaiting trained workers. Men in 2-A classification are subject to military duty if not preparing to enter some war occupation. Boys graduating from high school, or those not graduating but seventeen or older may qualify themselves for specialized jobs awaiting them upon entering military service.

Applications should be addressed to L. E. Norsworthy, Vocational Supervisor. Interested persons may enroll directly at the school if they desire by asking for Jimmy Keasler at the Aircraft Sheetmetal School, across from Spotless Cleaners, on Depot St.

Informal Dance At Air Base Wednesday Night

The weekly informal dance of the 443rd Base Headquarters and Air Base Squadron was held in the Squadron Day Room Wednesday night, March 24th, 1943. It was the most enjoyable and largely attended affair thus far held at the Air Base. A large group of charming young ladies attended from Grenada, Water Valley and other neighboring towns. Dancing continued until 11:00 p. m. Music was furnished by the Grenadiers, an all soldier orchestra from Camp McCain. Several members of the Air Corps supplemented the orchestra. In the course of the evening refreshments were served.

The dance was put on under the auspices of Special Services, Lt. Robert B. Harris officiating assisted by Lt. H. Cherney. The chaperones were Mesdames D. G. Ross, E. L. Betz, H. A. Alexander and Walter V. Davis, of Grenada, and Mesdames J. Robert McLarty, James A. Kennedy and Miss Edith McLarty, of Water Valley.

Sidney Jackson Injured In North Africa

Mrs. Benla Long Jackson received a telegram from the War Department on Tuesday stating that her son, Sgt. Sidney Jackson, fighting with an Artillery Battalion in North Africa was seriously injured in battle and that his condition was unimproved. Mrs. Jackson, who is employed at a defense job in Grenada, has the sympathy of her many friends during this sad experience. Sidney left Grenada in December of 1940 with the National guard under Capt. (now Major) Shaw.

Mrs. Sam Mims, III, returned Wednesday from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, where she visited her husband for several days.

Rogers Parker Again Seeks Office Of High Sheriff

Rogers Parker, of Graysport, who made a most credible race four years ago, when he first entered the arena of politics, seeking Grenada County's highest office, that of Sheriff, has again requested us to place his name in the announcement column, seeking the same important office.

He is a scion of one of Grenada County's oldest and most outstanding families, his family having continuously resided in Graysport (once larger than Grenada) for about a century. When the clarion call for men to stop the Huns of 1917-1918 came, Rogers Parker responded.

He is quiet and unassuming in his manner; he has successfully operated a large plantation for many years; his keen sense of land values prompted the Production Credit Corporation to make him one of their appraisers in this county. Who has ever seen him when a smile did not wreath his face?

He is going to retrace the steps that he took four years ago and attempt to see every voter of the county so that he and they can meet face to face to discuss the problems which he will face, should he be elected.

One of the best testimonials that Mr. Parker has is the vote that he received at his home box of Graysport in 1939, receiving 54 of the 59 votes cast at that box. He is one "prophet" that was "honored in his own country."

With this brief introduction, we leave him to the tender mercies of the people of Grenada County.

Illinois Central Safety School

Our friend, Mr. Sid Law, who has run many a train through Grenada and who has on many occasions lectured on Safety will now teach classes on Safety at Carbondale, Ill.

A school of instruction for prospective firemen and flagmen beginning April 5, 1943 which will take boys 16 years old who have completed the eighth grade and give them a course of intensive training, not only in theory but in practice. All through this training accident prevention and Safety Firsts will be the paramount idea. Boys will be given passes to and from Carbondale, Ill. where these classes will be held. All expenses will be paid and the I. C. will prepare them for the job of their choosing.

When they return home they will be put to work.

To gain admission to this school it will be necessary for the boy to get a release from his parents to stand a physical examination by our doctors.

Those who wish to enter this school may make application to the Trainmaster, or traveling engineer nearest their home town.

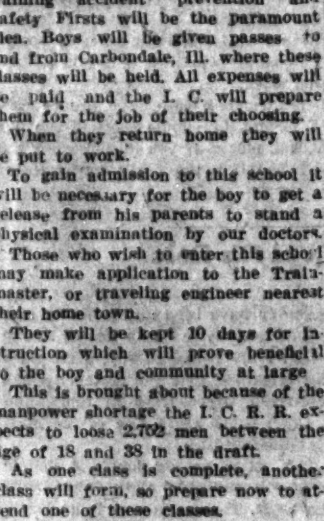
They will be kept 10 days for instruction which will prove beneficial to the boy and community at large.

This is brought about because of the manpower shortage the I. C. R. R. expects to loose 2,702 men between the age of 18 and 38 in the draft.

As one class is complete, another class will form, so prepare now to attend one of these classes.

Receives Promotion In New Mexico

Sgt. Jack L. Trussell, son of T. Trussell, of Grenada, Mississippi, has been promoted to the rank of T/Sgt at the Army Air Forces Advanced



T/SGT JACK L. TRUSSELL

Flying School, Carlsbad, New Mexico. This recognition is the result of his capable work in the training program of the Army Air Forces.

George Chamberlain Seeks Fourth Term as Supervisor

If this writer ever made a useless and an idle gesture, it is done here in seeking to introduce George Chamberlain, whose father and grandfather lived in Beat Two, to the people of Beat Two; and especially so since George himself has served that beat for three successive terms as supervisor. Since he has been in politics, there have been no run-offs in the supervisor's race in Beat Two, as George beats them all in the first.

He takes justifiable pride in the fact that, during the 12 years he has served, the debt of Grenada County has been reduced from about $900,002.00 to about $300,000.00, or to one-third what it was when he took his seat. He has been consistently conservative in his votes and action. While he has often voted a lone "No" against some expenditure he did not think circumstances justified, time has shown in many cases that George was right.

Except in the parts of Beat Two which are included in separate road and school districts, the taxes on homesteads are almost, if not quite as low as they were fifty years ago—practically nothing, judging by today's standards.

He has no special promises to make. He merely expects, if reelected, to make economy his guiding star, as he has done in the past.

What A Library Does For A City

1. Completes its educational equipment, carrying on and giving permanent value to the work of the schools.

2. Gives the children of all classes a chance to know and love the best in literature. Without a public library such a chance is limited to the very few.

3. Provides the best equipment for the furtherance of adult education programs.

4. Minimizes the sale and reading of vicious literature in the community, thus promoting mental and moral health.

5. Effects a saving in money to every reader in the community. Through the library every reader in the city can secure at a given cost from 100 to 1,000 times the material for reading and study that he could secure by acting individually.

6. Adds to the material vale of property. Real estate agents in the suburbs of large cities never fail to advertise the presence of a library, if there be one, as giving added value to the lots and houses they have for sale.

7. Appealing to all classes, sects and degrees of intelligence, it is a strong unifying factor in the life of a city.

A. G. Roane Died Monday, Buried Tuesday

Mr. A. G. Roane died in Grenada Hospital Monday morning, March 29, 1943 after an illness covering almost a year.

He was the son of the late Judge and Mrs. A. T. Roane, prominent factors in the business, social and legal business of this section for many years.

Mr. Roane was 65 years of age, he was an honor graduate of the University of Mississippi in 1900, and engaged in general law practice for a number of years, after which he confined his legal endeavor to affairs connected with the Grenada Bank System and to his own rather large farming and property interests.

The outstanding thing to be remembered about "Arch" Roane was the attachment that existed between himself and his brother, "Sell". They were almost constantly together and neither was happier than when they were together. They were real brothers.

Burial was had at Odd Fellows cemetery Tuesday after services conducted by the pastor of Mr. Roane's church, Rev. C. A. Pharr.

Surviving him are one brother, Mr S. S. Roane, of Grenada; two sisters, Mesdames Mattie Callen, of Selma, and Ella Roundtree, of Philadelphia; and one half-sister, Mrs. Dawson Winter, of Jackson, Miss.

Sympathy is extended the bereaved ones.

U. S. Engineers Needs Thousands of Specialists

Men from 18 to 37, not yet notified to appear for service, and who have experience in tractor driving, carpentry, motor repair, excavating work and the many other branches of work done by the United States Army Engineers are urged to apply to the Area Engineer at Camp McCain, or, if out of this community, to any Area Engineer for full information regarding the attractive pay which they will earn in the Corps of Engineers. Applicants have the opportunity to ask for either of many branches of work, and every effort will be made to place them where they wish to serve, though this, of course, is not guaranteed.

Righ here in Grenada thousands of men have received training that would fit them for work in the Corps of Engineers. As in any other line of endeavor, the men with exceptional ability will be advanced rapidly; and, if they desire, can take examination to go to Officers Training School for Army Engineers.

It should be stated for the benefit of those who do not know it that the Army Engineers are in charge of all constrction work for the U. S. Army, such as Camp McCain and the Grenada Army Air Base.

The above opportunity is a splendid one for those men whose qualifications and experience fit them for work which they have been doing in civil life, and will help preserve the continuity of their experience in their life's work.

Proper forms and any additional information may be secured from the office of the Area Engineer at Camp McCain, a position now held by Lt. Col. John C. Wade.

THROUGH A WOMAN'S EYE

By Mrs. W. W. Whitaker

MISSISSIPPI'S HEALTH DEPARTMENT FUNCTIONS IN GRENADA COUNTY

The State of Mississippi has one of the most active Public Health Departments in the Nation. This department housed in the Old Capitol building at Jackson, is as every Mississippian knows, headed by Dr. Felix J. Underwood, and he is assisted by a most capable staff of assistant doctors and nurses. Many young women are employed as recorders, clerks and typists, making in all a splendid staff assisting Dr. Underwood in keeping records of utmost importance. The lady at the head of the Public Health Nursing Service and of the mid-wives group in the state, is Miss Mary D. Osborne. She knows her duties so well and lives with her job so constantly, that it is said of Miss Osborne that she knows every mid-wife in Mississippi by name.

The Public Health Department in no way usurps the privileges or the legitimate field of the local doctors. The consulting nurse invariably asks, "have you spoken to your family doctor of your condition?" Recently on a trip to the country with Mrs. James Moore, consulting nurse for the eastern part of Grenada county, a small group of expectant mothers, (negroes) were present to allow Mrs. Moore to check their blood pressure and temperature. One woman, having fever, was advised to see her family doctor at once.

School children, also pre-school age children were checked for small pox vaccination, decayed teeth, enlarged tonsils and adenoid, diptheria shots: mid-wives were checked as to their general health and blood tests. They (the mid-wives) get this check up annually. I believe, along with preventative "shots" in the arm. This check-up each month by the consulting nurses, Mrs. Moore, who visits regularly on the east side of Highway 51, and Miss Carr, who has all of the county on the west side of Highway 51 is bound to do a lot of good. It is well to reflect seriously on this health crusade this year for with 50 thousands more people in the county, a certain percent civilians, and with doctors already overburdened with calls, it is truly a patriotic act to keep well. It is now time to safe guard against many contageous diseases which formerly might have meant death.

I would like to go back, for a few more words about the setting, in Jackson, of this great health work. Surely the work being done by the Public Health Department of the State ranks among the outstanding achievements of our State and although these achievements may not be recorded in bronze, they will be everywhere in evidence in better health and greater happiness of the people of Mississippi. In the old Senate Chamber of this historic Capitol building is a bronze tablet, commemorating past achievements. There is an arched alcove and part of the rostrum used a century ago, and at the base the bronze tablet with the following inscription: "From this rostrum of the former House of Representatives transpired these important events in the history of the State..

"1. Removal of Common Law disabilities of married women 1839.

"2. Address by Andrew Jackson 1840.

"3 Address by Henry Clay, 1844.

"4. Ordinance of Secession, 1861.

"5. Last visit and address by Jefferson Davis, 1864.

"6. Constitution Convention, 1865.

"7. Taxpayers Convention, 1875.

"8. Impeachment of Carpet Baggers, 1876.

"9. Constitutional Convention, 1890.

"10. Carter tor I. I. and C. at Columbus, 1892."

How fitting it would be to say, "This building is now dedicated to the purpose of relieving suffering among the underprivileged people of the State and to prevent as much as possible the spread of disease."

Here at home in Grenada County, Dr. F. L. McGahey, formerly of Calhoun City, is in charge of the Public Health Department.

Beginning his duties here in June 1, 1942, Dr. McGahey, with offices in the Heath building, has been and is one of the busiest persons in Grenada. His staff is composed of the following: Mr. John T. Miller, Sanitation Supervisor; Mr. Earl B. Ford, Special Veneral Disease investigator; two Health Nurses, Mrs. James Moore and Miss Thelma Carr. Mrs. David Hadley is Clinic Technician, Miss Vonette Wilson, Secretary and Mrs. Era Craddock is Clerk.

The work done here at the Public Health Clinic is thorough. The thought uppermost is to improve health conditions by preventative measures, curative measures and sanitation, and certainly the precaution taken in the prevention of spread of disease.

It is enlightening to review a few facts brought out in the interview with Dr. McGahey.

In February of this year, 693 syphilis patients were treated, receiving 2,371 treatments. Mr. Ford, V. D. investigator made 113 field visits and 272 Wasserman tests were made.

The "load" for March, incomplete by a few days, shows 730 venereal patients. Dr. McGahey states that 69 patients have been cured and have been sent on to the army. He expects to check out 20 patients each week for army service. This month 70 new cases are being treated at the health office.

The consulting nurses advised with and gave aid to 52 women admitted to antipartum service during February. In March 52 visits have been made of which 30 women reported for medical conference with Dr. McGahey.

Eight T. B. patients were visited and one admitted to Sanitorium, over 50 in the state. Twenty visits were made to pre-school age children and last fall a survey of the white schools in the county was made and 277 children examined.

CIVIC WORK

Food handlers examined since the department opened totals 784. This examination is a general health check-up, Wasserman test and examination of feces and urine. They are examined to ascertain whether they are typhoid carriers or not. Not one person examined was a typhoid carrier. General sanitation includes supervision by the department of 181 places, including all places where food is served, also dairies and public buildings; 190 private premises are regularly supervised. In February, alone 95 places where food is handled were inspected, five bacter in examinations of City Water supply have, been made and will continue to be made each month. Water in Grenada is abundant and pure.

Recently I was invited to be present when the health picture show was given at the negro school building. Some thirty odd young negro women were present at the afternoon session, and their attentive attitude bespoke their deep interest in the subjects. These films were shown later at the negro school to a larger group. Each picture was preceded by a talk by Dr. Underwood, and the film subjects on sanitation in the home and in public eating houses, dealing with the spread of disease, especially of common colds and venereal disease where sanitation is disregarded, was dwelt with in a most enlightening way. The picture dealing with the subject, "venereal disease," showed the terrible effects of syphilis and gonorrhea, and stressed the fact that if discovered in first stages, is curable.

A picture based on the subject of prenatal care of the mother and observance of health rules throughout pregnancy was shown as were several briefs, all very instructive. These pictures, property of Dr. Underwood's office, were loaned to Grenada County Health Department for a week, and were shown at several places, including Grenada Negro School to 250 people; Holcomb High School Hygiene class of 45 girls. Mr. Ford, who manipulated the films, attempted to show these pictures at Gore Springs, but a difference in power of the electric light system at that school prevented the show from being given.

The Health Department is here to serve us and will function more efficiently if a whole-hearted cooperation by the citizens of Grenada County is given. Inestimable benefits will be procured not only by the individual but by the county and state. We are honored to salute so fine an organization which serves us so well.

Too Much Slushy Stuff About Soldiers

There is entirely too damn much slushy, sobby, sentimental stuff about soldiers. Soldiers as a rule do not deserve all this stuff, nor do they want it. They have a job to do.

Why should not a young man, either through his own volition volunteer to defend his country, or, as an alternative, be drafted to defend his country. Who but the young, healthy young men ever defend any country?

I remember the last war. I put soldiers in three classes: Class One (to which I belonged), the fellows whom the draft board scared and who volunteered; Class Two, those who were drafted; and Class Three (to which old "Hoss" Crawford Garner and Dave Dogan belonged), the damn fools who went even if they were overage. The same conditions exist in this war. Soldiers are still in those three classes.

I expect, if the truth could be determined, we would not have a million men in service if it were not for the Class One and Class Two men, those who would be drafted and those who were drafted.

I think it is the DUTY of the young men to defend their country. I do not think a fellow should be covered with laurels because he was drafted (or MADE to go) or because he, fearing the draft, volunteered.

I venture another assertion. Add the prewar earnings of EVERY man in service; then add up the earnings of the same men now in service (giving consideration to the value of food, clothing, medical care, etc.) I will bet two to one that the second total will be twice the first total.

Time To Elect Good Men

I note that Marion County has drafted Hugh White—its leading citizens—to go to the State Senate. That's where we need our best men.

For many years, the Delta counties were made the goats in the State, until their people awoke. After that these counties drafted their very best men, such as Walter Sillers, Scrap Woolfork and other men of outstanding ability. Being numerically inferior in the State Legislature, they tried to make up for their numerical inferiority by mental and aggressive superiority. As a result one who reads about the proceedings in Jackson will see that the hill section and the piney woods section (with few exceptions) furnish the jackasses, and the Delta furnishes the brains. In the section outside the Delta, the people send men to the legislature because "the po' fellow is blind," or because he needs the job, or because he was drafted in World War No. 1 and made to go to war.

I recall when I was just a youth, in one county, the old Rebs, then in charge of affairs, picked out what they considered the "sorriest man in the county" to defeat a very conservative and intelligent man; I recall that, at another time, the old Rebs picked out the town drunkard to beat the same man.

Maybe therein is contained the reason that we have so many damphool laws and such extravagance in government.

Yes, It's An Ad

The following editorial, published as an ad in hundreds of daily newspapers by ESSO, and no doubt costing the company forty thousand dollars, was well named "The Unafraid:"

How much courage it takes to drive a plane down the funnel of a Jap carrier most of us will never know.

Men like Major Anderson don't come back to tell us.

How much courage it takes to fight in a deadly jungle crawling with Japs . . . how much courage it takes to battle heat and sand and thirst and Germans in the African deserts most of us can only guess at.

Our boys who fight there don't talk about it.

Such courage staggers the mind. It is the same kind of courage that has that neighbor boy of yours waiting at the hospital in uniforms to see his new-born son.

Some day soon that young father may have to dive his plane down the funnel of a Jap carrier.

He knows that. So does his wife.

Yet that faith is such that they get married . . . have babies . . . plan a confident future.

They are Unafraid. They make the fears and doubts of the rest of us seem mean and small. They make us see some of their vision of the magnificent future of our country . . . a country that can be entrusted with the sons of men who may never see them.

Fred Sullens Renders Mike A Disservice

Recently the Jackson Daily News came out with an editorial about Mike Conner and among other things hinted that there was a possibility that Mike would be elected in the first primary. Naturally Mike likes to hear this kind of stuff, for he sorter believes it himself. He believed it four years ago and that was one of the reasons he stayed in the Tower Building instead of in the Towering Timber so long that one of his best friends said "Mike is harder to get out of the Tower Building than Roll-em Wall."

I am for Mike Conner and have never failed to vote for him since he started in 1923. This gives me the privilege to say that, while I believe Mike has the best chance he has ever had, he will NOT be elected in the First primary. Mike has too many enemies. His opponents have too many friends.

For his own sake, Mike Conner's friends should not encourage him in the belief that he will win in the first, for only a miracle could bring about such a result.

The Laborer Worthy Of His Hire

The county supervisor is, like any other laborer, worthy of his hire; and he should be be paid a straight salary, and not forced to resort to the supterfuge of getting about 90 percent of his salary "for inspecting roads"—which is a relic of the past.

In the counties of the class of Grenada County, the maximum amount that a supervisor can draw is $1,200.00 a year. The law provides for payment of only two services: "per diem" at regular or call meetings, and so much a day for inspecting roads. There is no legal provision for payment of the thousands of other things that a good supervisor is supposed to do.

In our county, for example, Uncle Peter, the faithful old janitor, comes up to the pay window and draws his pay for a month's work; the assessor draws his monthly pay, etc. But, so to speak, the supervisor has to come in through the back door and get his pay, or at least most of it, for "inspecting" roads.

EVERY officer EVERYWHERE draws the MAXIMUM pay allowed him. Grenada County officers are no exceptions. The supervisors each draw the full $1200.00 each and every year, and, by the way, they earn it.

So why not suggest to the next legislature that supervisors be paid a SALARY and call it "salary"?

Cigarette Tax Evasion

When a soldier goes into a canteen and buys me a carton of cigarettes and resells it to me at cost, there is a loss in tax revenue to the State of Mississippi of only 40 cents, which will neither break Mississippi nor make a special session of the legislature necessary; but when that custom is widespread, the aggregated loss in revenue may become enormous. Then, too, the soldier who through a spirit of accomodation to a civilian friend buys these cigarettes for civilian use, he takes that many cigarettes, which are likely to become scarce, away from his own buddies.

The camp authorities are anxious to cooperate with the State Tax Commission, but the situation is a difficult one. About the only practical way to stop this practice is to appeal to the sense of fairness of the soldiers and the sense of fairness of the civilian consumers of state tax free cigarettes.

Such an appeal to the fairness of the people is hereby made with the hope that some good may be done.

The law books contain methods of punishment, but let us forget the "thou shall not's," and just recall that every penny thus diverted is a penny diverted from the General Fund of the State which is used for vital State functions.

After Many Months

Last summer it was too hot for us to get out subscription statements; last winter, it was too cold and we were too damn busy, lazy or both to do so. Finally, however, we got around to sending out statements this week to our subscribers in the City and County. To tell the truth, we had to "bill" remarkedly few, for most people have learned that the little figures "9-42", "2-43", etc. printed with their names mean the expiration dates.

We have already discovered several cases where we were in error, which proves that we are human. Any mistake we make we are always glad to correct. By and large, however, the statements sent out were correct, and we are getting a fine response.

We are sending out these statements for two reasons: first, to get the money; and, second, to give everyone who is delinquent proper notice before their names are removed from the mailing list.

With paper getting scarce and with costs of operation rising and with revenue dwindling, it is idle to tote a lot of drones on our back.

So, ladies and gentlemen, please take proper cognizance of these notices and do not file them in the fire or in the trash box. And, please, if you do not want the paper any longer, or if unable to pay for it, let us know.

Thank you.

Giving The Devil His Dues

While I am not, never have been and probably never will be in favor of the expensive set-up known as the Rent Control Authority, I am bound to say, after talking to one of the investigators, that the Authority has uncovered some inexcusable overcharges in rents, and has corrected them. Cited below are a few of the most glaring of the rent profiteering cases:

A room about 20 x 22 in an old house, 4 double beds, no chairs, bare floor, occupied by eight people, each of whom paid $4.00 a week. This room was in a house where about 30 people lived and all used the one bath tub and the one toilet. The rent from the one room was approximately $138.00 per month.

Several single rooms comprising a tourist camp. Each room about 12 x 18 contained 2 old beds, a chair and an oil stove. No fuel and no linen were furnished by landlord. No city water for bathing or sanitation available. Each room rented for $46.00 a month.

A room about 20 x 20 in an old house, containing 2 beds and 2 chairs, rented to two couples, brought $90.00 a month.

A 16 x 18 section of a hall in an old home partioned off with beaver board from the other part of the large hall, containing 2 beds, 2 chairs and one drop cord was rented to two girls for $52.00 a month. Neither linen nor fuel was furnished.

The Rent Control Authority is doing good in correcting such unreasonable rentals.

No names and no towns are mentioned, as the reader will note.

Two Fires At The Same Time

God Almighty has been gracious and kind to Grenada in many ways, one of which was in not permitting Grenada to have TWO fires at the SAME time.

Grenada has the same fire-fighting equipment that it did when water works were first installed here forty years ago, at which time there were about 2,000, instead of eight or nine thousand people here.

It is inevitable that some day—may it long be postponed, is my prayer—a second fire will break out while the one unit of equipment is fighting another fire.

What then, Echo answers, "What?"

JUNIOR PLAY

Once every several years we have the privilege of attending a junior play that is the natural result of combining a good play with real talent. This year's junior play was such a success as this. "O Promise Me" was one of the most delightful plays that have been sponsored by a junior class in many years.

The excellent choice of the cast plus many hours of hard, yet eager practice, possibly was the main reason for the sicess of the play.

Miss Dulcie Simmons, the sponsor of the Junior class and the director of the play, deserves much of the credit, for with her skillful guidance the play "wen through without a hitch."

Congratulations to the Class of '44.

GIRL RESERVE AND GLEE CLUB PICTURES MADE

Tuesday, March 23, the Girl Reserves after three unsuccessful attempts, had their pictures made. About fifty co ls came dressed in their white dresses and blue ties. The Glee Club also was photographed, and the results of both will appear in the yearbook.

GIRL RTSERVES

Thursday, March 25th the Girl Reserves met for one of the few remaining programs of this year. The program was entitled, "Paving the Way to Peace" and consisted of a discussion between three girls, Olga Lewis, Joyce Cheatam, and Catherine Herring, as to the part of Girl Reserves in helping to solve post-war problems.

After the program, a business session was conducted by the president, Betty Jane Yeager. Service Chairman, presented a plan for collecting used grease every two weeks. The first collection will be Thursday, and about 15 girls will canvass the town. Other plans to help in the war effort were discussed. Miss Haynes asked for volunteers to help make curtains for a day room at Camp McCain, and the idea was whole-heartedly received. The meeting was closed with the singing of several Girl Reserve songs.

RED CROSS WORKER AT CHAPEL

Mr. Rundle led the devotional period in chapel Wednesday. He made a short talk from the seventh chapter and the 12th verse of Matthew.

Mr. Aleal, who is connected with the American Red Cross at Camp McCain, was our speaker. Mr. Aleal spoke on the "works of the Red Cross," and how it helps mankind both in the camps all over the United States and in civilian life as well. The American Red Cross is a great organiation and its cause should be supported by all loyal Americans.

G. H. S. MAKES RED CROSS CONTRIBUTION

G. H. S. pupils were given an opportunity Thursday and Friday to contribute to the Red Cross. Within this short time they gave almost sixty dollars to this great cause.

MAJOR BENTLEY GUEST SPEAKER

Major Bentley, a veteran of World War I and a prominent Rotarian, now stationed at Camp McCain, was a most welcome and inspiring speaker at chapel recently. The students of GHS consider Major Bentley one of the most enjoyable speakers who have ever been here and hope that he will speak at chapel again soon.

G. H. S. DIRT

The Bulldog Intelligence Service, always on the prowl for unique news, has made several attempts to discover why Billy Theisman prefers guys to gals. In case you change your mind, Billy, please notify us soo we can make the girls happy.

Casey and oTreen, John Edgar and Mary Aldridge double dated Sunday night. They were seen at the Methodist Church.

Everyone was glad to see Jean Scott back on her old stomping ground last week end. She and Rogers were at the midnight show.

Friedman's is definitely Brannon's favorite hangout on Saturday night. Of course the fact that Laverne works there bears no weight on the matter!

Who said ten people couldn't get in the same car at one time? Witness the unlucky crowd with Warren Sunday afternoon.

Each week a report comes in about Giles. He must really be a Casanova as a lady killer. Maybe he's just a plain ole killer diller.

Dear Margaret Bell: How is Eddie? (not Rickenbacker) R S V P

Our snoop reporter has just wired a report about Lynn. He was seen with a Greenwood girl not long ago. When asked to make a statement about this affair, he refused. Can we help drawing our own conclusion?

Ever since March 21, which by the way was the first day of Spring, many Spring fever cases have been apparent. With the Senior Play coming up and the annual unfinished, a desperate need of energy is facing G. H. S. "Where are we going to get it?" asked Rook. "I'm sure I don't know—yawn!" replies Terry Mack. Miss Wilson suggests vitamins, but they would have to be awfully potent vitamins. Maybe our chemists could create a tonic. Have we anyone who can solve the energy problem? Our only hope is in the proverb, "If spring comes, can summer be far behind?" (Namely—the END of School.)

Hear Jay and Joe enjoyed a trip to Memphis last week end. We'll stop at that!

A hearty welcome was extended to Rowe who visited Rogers last week-end. We were all glad to see him.

FLASH: The latest thing in Romance—Eva Jean Robinson and Bobby Alexander. That case seems to be on the serious side.

That's all we can scrape up this week—but how can we write the news if you don't make any.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Elgin Field, Fla., March 25, 1943

Dear Sir:

I wonder if you will let me drop in long enough to say hello to all the folks back home

I have been in the Service eight months, and like it fine, I am sure all the folks back home are doing their part to help win this war.

I have one buddy here from the good old town of Grenada, PFC Norris V. Wilson, and it helps a lot to be with some one from the old home town.

I wonder if you will send me the home town paper? I would appreciate it a lots. Until I see everyone again, good luck and let's keep old Glory flying.

Sincerely,
Cpl. Eddie S. McMahan,

Janey

Janey closed the bedroom door and locked it. Alone at last! She threw back her head and heaved a deep sigh. Then she peeked out of the corner of her eye at the mirror to see whether she really did look like Hedy LaMarr. Quite a lot, she decided.

And now to business. She drew forth from the bottom of her top bureau drawer the sheet of pink writing-paper and the envelope that she had been saving for this day. She sat down at the table by the window and dipped the pen into the bottle of green ink that her sister Rose was such a pig about. She wrote, with beautiful arabesques, "Dear Mr. Morgenthau," and held her head back to admire this effort of the best pupil in penmanship class.

"Here are my stamps for a bond. $18.75. I started last Christmas when I got $3.00. Not counting 50 cents, I have earned all the rest, working one or more days a week at a local grocery store, and I'm quite proud to say I worked hard to get it."

Janey stared out of the window at Peterson's house and beyond at the big yard where the kids were playing football. She held her pen elegantly in air.

"Sitting here looking out the window, I see a peaceful little town, and I wonder how the world can be in such a turmoil and the people of this world can have such hate for their fellow men. So I'm proud to send these stamps because I know I'm helping to make the whole world peaceful again like our little town."

She signed her name with an important flourish, not forgetting a conspicuous "Miss" in front of the "Janey." After she had sealed the letter she went on staring out of the window. It really was awfully peaceful. Overhead she heard a plane go humming by through the sunny afternoon air.

Then the voice of her best friend, Betty, called from outside—"Janey!" In an instant Janey was on her feet and tearing downstairs and out. She was not Hedy LaMarr nor a deep philosopher any more, but exactly twelve years old.

WOMEN AT WAR

Irene

When Irene got home from the airplane factory she was good and tired. This was the hour, after work and before dinner, that she always looked forward to. Her private name for it was "My sissy hour." Into it, these days, she packed all the lazy, luxurious little things she loved—things that used to take up a lot more than an hour of her peace-time days.

She sat down at the little desk in her room. You could tell quite a lot about Irene from that desk. The water-glass filled with the small bouquet of flowers she sometimes bought on the way home. The paper-weight of pink marble. The thin, crackly blue air-mail stationery. And the big, framed photograph of a young man in a corporal's uniform—as good-looking a man as Irene was pretty. On the blotter pad lay the telegram that had come that morning just as she was leaving for work.

With those long, well-shaped fingers she reached for a sheet of paper. She nibbled the end of her pen for a bit, and then she wrinkled up her nose at the picture of the soldier and began to write, "Dear Mr. Morgenthau", but the corporal's name was Jackson and she called him Pete. Her round handwriting spread across the page. "My boy friend is with the A.E.F. in Ireland. He has cabled me fifty dollars with which to buy a diamond ring. I've been thinking it over and decided to buy a War Bond to help Uncle Sam instead. This may help to bring my boy friend home sooner, and then he can help me select my ring."

Slowly she began to sign her name. "Irene ——"

GIRL FILLS JOB AS METER READER

Young Lady At Greenville Ably Replaces Men Called Into The Armed Forces

Lena Helen Matthews, employee of Mississippi Power & Light Company's Greenville office, is one of the first woman meter readers in this section of the country. In filling a position held only by men in normal times, Miss Matthews is doing an excellent job.

CARD OF THANKS

To all our neighbors and friends who were so thoughtful and considerate of us during the illness and death of our dear husband and father, we wish to express our heartfelt thanks to each of you.

Your words of sympathy, deeds of kindness and the beautiful flowers you sent were greatly appreciated.

May God bless you.

THE HOME FRONT

Now that point rationing covers meats, cheese, butter, fats and oils, the southern farmer who slaughters any animals for selling off the farm should bear in mind all of these salient facts:

A farm slaughterer must make contact with his county War Board. This is the paramount thing. All others follow after.

He must obtain a slaughter permit from that county War Board, and to qualify for a permit, he must be operating under federal, state, county or city inspection, or must certify that he has adequate sanitary and other facilities for slaughtering.

He must furnish to the board information about his 1941 slaughter. If unable to do this, he may either accept a quota for 1943 of 300 pounds of meat to be sold, or sell the meat from three animals, including not more than one head of cattle.

Each farm slaughterer is required to collect ration points, he must report all meat sold or transferred by him, he must abide by price ceilings and must grade beef, veal, lamb and mutton according to standards of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

MORE CAN OPENERS

Restrictions upon the manufacture of can openers have been eased to take care of a shortage which has developed in America's kitchens.

Stripped of technical percentage quotations, the order in effect more than doubles the number previously allowed for civilian use.

CUT PLENTY OF WOOD

Fuels Coordinator Ickes is appealing to all persons who cut wood for fuel to do a good war-time job and produce every cord possible.

He has received reports from U. S. foresters indicating that cutting of fuel wood has fallen below the peace-time level in some sections and that a considerable part of this is being used now instead of being stored for next winter.

The results—unless there is prompt and loyal action by everyone engaged in this work—will be higher demands upon our coal supply.

CHARCOAL ON FARMS

Farmers who make and sell charcoal need not worry about the recent WPB limitation order unless they produce more than 1,000 pounds a month, or sell more than 12 tons a year.

VITAMINS FOR FOWLS

Turkeys and chickens will get Vitamin A in concentrated form this spring to make up for feed deficiencies.

Effects of a shortage of alfalfa meal—chief source of Vitamin A in poultry feeds—will be overcome by a WPB order allowing fish liver oils and other fish oils to be added to poultry feeds in specified quantities.

DURABLE SHOES PLENTIFUL

We will have available 15 million more pairs of durable war-time shoes this year than last, because production of this type has been increased while other types have been reduced. Instead of offering vast selections of peace time types, stores will stock more durable models and will have more complete size variety. Rationing assures fair distribution.

FARM TRANSPORT A PROBLEM

ODT officials are grappling with the problem of agricultural transportation this year. Increased acreage coupled with steady decline in the number of farm trucks are the principal factors.

One of the most important and beneficial things which can be done by farmers is to develop and put into effect plans for joint use of motor equipment.

LIVING COSTS UP

Living costs of city workers have risen 22.6 percent since August 15, 1939.

There was a rise of 0.2 percent in the month ending February 15.

The costs of goods and services under price control remained unchanged, but there were rises in uncontrolled foods, goods and services, some kinds of house furnishings and living room suites.

But for price control all cost-of-living items would have skyrocketed long ago.

Red Martin Gets Concession

W. L. "Red" Martin has sold his barber shop on the square to take up his enlarged duties as holder of the concession for barbering at Camp McCain.

Good luck, Red.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Cullen spent Wednesday in Memphis.

Miss Carolyn Whitaker with her room mate, Miss Ivy Brister, both students at All Saints Episcopal College, at Vicksburg, are expected to spend the week end with Carolyn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Whitaker, arriving Friday night.

Virgil Barnes, of Camp Shelby, is visiting relatives here this week.

Mrs. C. C. Waterman is visiting relatives in Kansas.

The Tale Of A Turnip Seed

Down south near the Gulf Coast where the cold wintry winds do not linger and the warm sunshine is delightful there were some men who had heard what a hard time folks were having getting fresh greens on account of Jack Frost acting up, so they took some little black turnip seed and planted them in the warm ground and after some days the little black seed came forth in a new form, pushing their little green bodies right up through the good earth.

AS TIME PASSED

They grew night and day not knowing their destination, but they didn't worry about that but let the gentle rains water them and the warm sun put the "it" in them but they knew that worry only acts as a poison to the system and they wanted to be useful to humanity so they tried to be happy and full of life and fun and let Jack Frost and the north winds do the worrying.

They Grew To Be Beauties

They were so graceful and tender and their color was simply gorgeous after many days it was decided that they should see some of the world so they were tucked in a big truck and covered over with some nice fresh ice and in fact they were comfortably situated and all they wanted was to be left some place where they would be appreciated and enjoyed. After traveling north many miles they pulled up in front of a great big store on the north side of the square and it looked so friendly inside they decided they wanted to unload and settle down. Anyone wanting a few bunches of nice tender green turnip greens should come by and take a look at them. Absolutely no charge for just looking at them. We'll only charge for them if you take them out of the store.

Horn revised the mailing list Sunday last and added 64 new subscribers. This is the result of additions for the past five weeks when we revised the list last. The Commercial Appeal would tie an empty tomato can to the tail of its circulation manager if he could not make a more favorable showing, but it is pretty good for a small country weekly.

By the indulgence of our creditors and good luck, we got by today—another first of the month.

J. L. Townes, Sr. made the bull he shot at one day last week, it is reported on reliable authority.

Well, T. J. Lowry pitched his derby into the ring this week.

Notice to boys in Africa, New Guinea, Australia, etc: you had better get a wife wherever you are, for there will be no gals left in Grenada, the way they are marrying soldiers. I never saw the like.

Talking about business, wait until Saturday which is after pay day. Nobody has ever seen so much money as will be spent here then.

Mabel and I went down to Oxberry Sunday afternoon with Lt. and Mrs. Moore. The auxiliary air field, embracing all of the land in my old "home" place, as well as other land, was so smooth and so cleaned off that I could not recognize where my old house was, except by a slight dip where my front gate was.

Too bad, lady, that you scraped off about 500 miles of rubber on the curb. You did not hurt the curb a bit, but you hastened the day when you can begin reducing that fanny Nature's way—by walking.

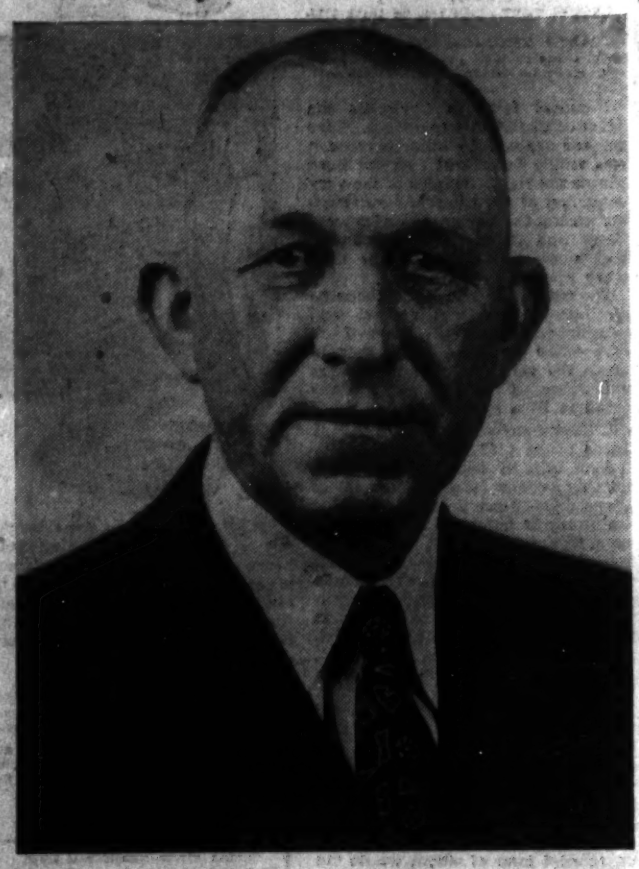
T. J. Lowry Announces For Re-election



To the People of the Northern Highway District of Mississippi:

Exactly four years ago this week, I announced for the office of Highway Commissioner. At the end of the first primary, with three strong opponents besides the incumbent, I pulled up to second place, trailing the incumbent by more than ten thousand votes. After the most heated run-off ever seen in North Mississippi, and despite overwhelming odds, you elected me your Commissioner by a majority of 5,947 votes. I shall always be grateful and deeply indebted to you for this expression of confidence, which I feel was given me as a result of my previous record of EFFICIENCY, STRICT ECONOMY, and RUGGED HONESTY in public office.

In making my announcement for re-election at this time, I assure you that the records will show that I have lived up to these principles in representing you on the Highway Commission. I have cooperated with the other two Commissioners and the Director in operating the department from a statewide point of view. I did not try to change or disturb the personnel in the State office. However, we did work out practically a new set-up for the Northern District, and I am sure that we have at this time, the most efficient organization that this district has ever had. With only one exception, all the District and Assistant District Engineers, all of the Project and Assistant Project Engineers, and Instrumentmen and all the Inspectors that we have had on the payroll in this district during the past three years worked for the previous administration. I knew that they had years of training and experience to qualify them to hold these places of great responsibility. They are doing an excellent job and have the taxpayers interest at heart.

When I went in office on January 1, 1940, I found that every dollar of the Northern District's part of the Bond Issue Fund had either been SPENT, PLACED UNDER CONTRACT, or ALLOCATED to a definite project. My predecessor let more than two million dollars worth of contracts in December 29, 1939.

At the end of the first sixty days after I went in office we had reduced the monthly payroll of the construction department in this district $11,000. This large saving was accomplished by eliminating the UNNECESSARY men found on the different projects in force at that time. We are proud of the projects completed in this district during the past three years and we are ready and willing to compare the types of pavements and the per-mile cost of construction with that of any previous administration.

We have made a number of changes in the operation of the maintenance department which have resulted in the saving of many thousands of dollars. This department has been organized for maximum efficiency, and through the efforts of trained men and the use of modern equipment we have been able to secure the highest type of highway maintenance at the lowest possible cost. I sponsored the system of allocating the maintenance funds of the department to the different commissioners' districts on a per-mile basis. This plan of distribution of state funds has benefited the Northern District mainly, because this district has the largest mileage. Due largely to these reforms, which have been in effect since January 1, 1941, we take pride in telling you that we have on hand, at this time, a reserve fund large enough to service the outstanding highway bonds and to properly maintain our state highways for all of the year 1943, even though the gas tax revenue should decline as much as fifty percent.

I am proud of the record that we have made as your Highway Commissioner. I regret that the lack of funds at the time I went in office and the change in world conditions at a later date have made it impossible for me to carry out my program in the construction of "Farm-To-Market" roads however, this is still a part of my future program. Recently I attended a highway conference in Wasaington, D. C., composed of delegates from the different State Highway Departments. At this conference we worked out plans for a huge post-war road program. We found a strong sentiment in Congress to furnish federal funds for financing the inauguration of such a program immediately after hostilities have ceased.

It is needless for me to remind you that our nation is involved in the greatest war of its history. My only son is in the army and I am sure that all of you have sons or relatives in the Service. The winning of this struggle should be of first importance in the hearts and minds of all Americans. Immediately after the declaration of war it was very necessary that we suspend the construction of all highways except those of military importance. The same materials entering into highway construction were needed to build airports, camps, and the mighty weapons of war. As your member of the State Highway Commission I have endeavored to cooperate with our Government to the best of my ability to conserve these materials for the war need. I am also proud to tell you that since early last year more than ninety percent of the highway employees in this district have invested more than ten percent of their salaries each month in War Bonds.

I have given you a brief outline of my record.

I have worked with the Governor of the state and so long as I am Highway Commissioner I will cooperate in any worthwhile road program with the man you see fit to elect Governor.

I have cooperated, and will continue to cooperate, with the different City Officials and County Boards of Supervisors in the solution of their problems in so far as our finances and the law will permit.

I have kept the highway organization in this district out of politics the past three years and guarantee that we will not take any stock whatever in the election or defeat of any candidate for any office in the future.

I have not played politics with your money.

It has been a time honored democratic cistom to give an official, who has made good, an indorsement term in office. Therefore, I earnestly solicit your vote and influence in behalf of my re-election and, I promise you A DOLLAR'S WORTH OF ROADS FOR EVERY DOLLAR SPENT.

Yours for Victory,
T. J. LOWRY,
Highway Commissioner
Northern District.

Jerry Sadler, In Middle East, Will Miss His Eatin' Tobacco Unless War Ends In Two Years

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH

Somewhere in the Middle East (Delayed)—If this cussed war isn't over in two years' time, Texas Jerry Sadler will be out of eatin' tobacco.

Sadler, more properly First Lieut. Gerald Anthony Sadler, former farmhand, bellhop, oil field hand, oil dealer, lawyer and member of the Texas Railroad Commission, whom I happily encountered somewhere on the supply route to Russia, brought with him to this snuffless country a two-year stock of Garrett's finest.

Sadler is a snuff-dipper and almost rhapsodic in his attitude toward the habit, it is part of the portrait and personality of a man who has become a sort of minister extraordinary from Texas to this theater of the war.

"Smoke is the ghost of tobacco; chewing tobacco is the body, but snuff is the soul," Sadler explains when he is in a philosophical mood, which is often. "Snuff dipping is the mark of men with hair on their chest."

ENLISTED AS A PRIVATE

Sadler, only 35 despite the graying temples, won one of the most competitive offices in the rough-and-tumble of Texas politics when he was 30, becoming a member of Texas' powerful three-man Railroad Commission, but chucked it to enlist as a common soldier at Fort Sam Houston on May 2 1942, with two and a half years of his term unexpired. He was commissioned a first lieutenant on June 17, 1942—a quickie lieutenant, as he calls it.

Just before leaving for foreign service on Sept. 4, Sadler married Miss Laura Jones of Fort Worth, a pretty 26-year old graduate of Texas Christian University.

Jerry Sadler, with a 4-E draft classification card in his pocket, might have sat this war out in the already essential job he was doing. This correspondent wondered on meeting the soft-spoken, chunky-built, gray-eyed Texan what had impelled him to join up.

"Well, I guess we're something of a fighting breed down Texas way," Sadler said. "I calculated I could do more good over here than at home. I guess that was all there was to it. I decided I ought to give everything I could to the country that has been so good to me."

BIG BROTHER TO THE HOMESICK

Sadler's experience in business and on the Texas Railroad Commission serves him well here where the constant aim is to keep things moving.

But, more than that, he has made himself a committee of one to see that soldier boys from Texas feel as much at home as possible in this far corner of the world. He's a big brother to any homesick enlisted man from Texas—or Maine, for that matter.

With twelve years of flying his own planes, Jerry Sadler might have compromised by taking some goundling desk job in the Air Forces—he is too old for combat aviation—but, instead, he chose to get into the battle of the supply lines, where he thinks much of the war will be won. He has come to work in some of the most difficult country and climate of the world.

LOTS OF FIST FIGHTS

Jerry Sadler has no doubt about the outcome of the war and little doubt as to how long the job will take though he doesn't wish to prognosticate on the latter. He looks forward to picking up once more the threads of his political career. He is a young man with plans—plans which he would be better left for disclosure when peace comes.

Sadler won election to the Railroad Commission in 1938 by offering himself as a man of the people, with his snuff-dipping, homely and earnest manner of speech, and his retinue of hillbilly musicians.

In five months of campaigning he had no fewer than twenty-eight fist fights. One night toward the end of the campaign he stepped into a corner drugstore for a soft drink. He had not yet made his speech that night. A loafer in the place, striking up conversation said:

"Say, stranger, did you hear? Sadler's fightin' here tonight."

U. S. Sub in Jap Waters

By Lieut. Slade Cutter, U. S. N.

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with The American Magazine.)

Our United States submarine had been operating against the enemy in the vicinity of Japanese-held islands when, one afternoon, our captain, Lieut. Parks, called me to his cabin.

I thought his eyes gleamed with unusual excitement, but he only said casually, "Good news, Slade," and handed me a wireless he had just received. I held it to the light and read: "Proceed at once to the coast of Japan—"

Sometimes it is difficult to repress an impulse to whoop with delight, and this was one of those times. This was the moment we had lived for, the moment every submariner dreams about.

A Surface Engagement.

We turned and cruised steadily westward. The Japanese coastal patrol system extends many miles to sea and is painstakingly thorough. The first time we got very close to shore before we were spotted. Just before daylight, as we were preparing to dive, a patrol boat came at us with its guns spitting. We didn't want to waste torpedoes—we were a long way from replacements—so decided to fight it out with our deck guns. It was our first surface engagement and it proved almost disappointingly brief. One of our first shells struck the enemy's magazine and he simply disintegrated. We cruised over the area, but found no survivors.

Sink Tanker in 3 Minutes.

A day later, in the same neighborhood, we spotted a big tanker about sunrise. After some maneuvering we gave him three torpedoes. All were hits. The third struck aft, and must have exploded his boilers. There was a terrific blast that threw parts of his bridge clear over his mainmast, and he sank in three minutes and four seconds. He went down by the stern, his bow rising high in the air, to give us an excellent view of the rising sun painted on it. We surfaced and cruised among the men in the water, intending to give them emergency supplies, but a bomber came winging out from the land and we had to dive.

At this time we were in the busy steamer lane between Yokohama and Singapore where important targets might be expected. So, when Lieutenant Pleatman saw a heavy smudge on the horizon, we hurried over to investigate. It proved to be a troop transport of 13,600 tons, heavily loaded with men and supplies and escorted by a large destroyer. It was headed for Singapore.

Sink Transport and Freighter.

We had a ticklish problem. The destroyer was weaving a zigzag course which could not be predicted. It was a long time before we could maneuver into a position off the transport's port beam. We gave her two torpedoes. Both hit. Before we could turn, the destroyer was coming for us full speed, following down the torpedo tracks. We dived and maneuvered to safety. When the destroyer had to leave us to pick up survivors, we raised our periscope in time to see the transport settle slowly on an even keel.

An interisland freighter was our next target. We decided to attack with our deck gun to save torpedoes, so surfaced at point-blank range and let go. We had fired 17 rounds, when three things happened simultaneously: Our gun jammed with a projectile wedged in the barrel, their ship caught fire, and the Japs surrendered by striking their colors and running up a weird assortment of white cloths ranging from sheets to underwear. They took to their rafts, and their ship continued to burn until she sank.

During the daylight we cruised along the sea lanes at periscope depth seeking worth-while targets. Nights, we would surface in a quiet spot, usually in the lee of one of the many small islands, to charge our batteries. It was there that I smelled for the first time the strange, haunting fragrance of the Japanese forests. At dawn we lay offshore for a long time, watching the people.

Lieutenant Commole, standing periscope watch one morning, electrified the ship by reporting: "Target off the starboard bow!"

As we moved up to let her have it, we discovered that she had been masking an escort destroyer. He was on her opposite side; we couldn't hope for a more favorable opportunity. Without delay, we fired a bow torpedo. It had barely left the tube when the destroyer swung sharply and came charging toward us. We fired another torpedo into his path.

What followed was a submariner's dream.

Country's Capital Where Government Is Located

As the capital of any country is where its government is, capitals of quite a number of European countries are "somewhere in England" at the moment, and will continue to be until the war is ended.

The capital of France these days changes so rapidly that it is hard to keep up with it. In the hearts of all true Frenchmen the capital is Paris, but the Vichy government has already been set up at Bordeaux, Tours, and Vichy.

Bordeaux was the French capital during the Franco-Prussian war last century, and centuries ago it was the capital of English France during the reign of Richard II. In those days a considerable part of France was a British colony. The last remnants of it are the Channel islands.

U. S. Steel Reports 1942 Production 20 Per Cent Greater Than World War I Peak

United States Steel Corporation's Annual Report for 1942, reporting attainment of a steel ingot tonnage production 20 per cent greater than in the peak year of World War I, has just been released as "a production story—and a financial story—of a great war effort."

Production by U. S. Steel in 1942 of more than 35,000,000 net tons of ingots as well as the manufacture of a steady flow of products entering into the manufacture of munitions used in prosecuting the war were described by Irving S. Olds, Chairman of the Board of Directors, in his review of the year contained in the Corporation's forty-first annual report. Noted as only one of several principal contributions of U. S. Steel to the war effort, these instructions were maintained as follows: "First, a record volume of steel and other materials needed not only for the fabrication of essential war products but also for the creation of new facilities to make such products was produced. Second, new technical ability in overcoming many difficulties encountered in connection with the production of steel was made available for the assistance of the Government. Third, the construction and operation of vital new facilities for the Government in connection with the war effort were undertaken. Fourth, millions of dollars of U. S. Steel's funds were used in connection with the war effort even contrary to the normal practices for various facilities necessary to the war effort."

A year-end statement of the financial results of the Corporation for the year disclosed in simple language the way each dollar received by the Corporation from sales of its products and services during 1942. Employment costs of $1,281,231,000 were 37% greater than in 1941; while the number of employees on the payroll at the end of the year, 268,000, was more than in the previous year; these facts were reflected in the net income of $141,000,000 for the year, which was 10% more than in the preceding year; while dividends to stockholders remained unchanged, "no dividends carried forward for future needs of the Corporation was 79% less than in 1941.

Among accomplishments cited is the development of the airplane landing mat. The serious problem of handling plane landings on hastily built air fields was solved with the war-time invention by Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, a U. S. Steel subsidiary, of a landing mat, consisting of portable interlocking steel sections. It was announced the outstanding development of the year in the field of aviation by the Chief of the Army Air Force. As mass production methods were evolved, other companies were licensed to use the process, and thirty smaller manufacturers are now producing these landing mat sections in quantity.

The report reveals that in 1942 one subsidiary, Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, completed more destroyers for the Navy Department in shorter building time than any other shipyard in the country. A new shipyard built by this subsidiary for the Navy Department began operations five months after ground was broken. A fully equipped shipyard for the production of the latest type of tank landing craft was constructed and is being operated for the Navy Department by American Bridge Company, another subsidiary.

All interesting comparison of the use of U. S. Steel's own resources and of Government funds for the expansion of privately owned facilities undertaken by U. S. Steel from June, 1940, to the end of 1942, shows that the ratio of U. S. Steel's investment to the use of its own resources, funds were the use of Government money to privately owned facilities was only 1 to 7. When compared with a ratio for all industry of 1 to 1, the ratio for U. S. Steel is one dollar of Government funds to seven dollars of private funds. In other words, U. S. Steel's private investment was 700% as compared with 100% for all of industry. Of the total of Government funds expended, making a total of private funds expended, making a total of $1,168,000,000 expended in the program.—Adv.

Use Ethylene for Ripening

Ethylene was first used for the purpose of ripening oranges rapidly, by putting a tent over each tree or storing the unripe fruit in a room and adding small percentages of ethylene. By using this method of ripening, the fruit could be shipped without loss owing to rotting. The growth of potatoes has been stimulated by ethylene and propylene.

Bombers See White Best

White and very light colors on buildings are more readily visible to enemy bombers than buildings painted in darker tints. White is visible from 6,500 to 10,000 feet in moonlight, while a neutral yellowish gray is visible only from about 1,600 feet or 2,300 feet under flares.

Time Stands Still

Travelers wandering into the Mexican countryside may find customs and implements that have not been changed in over a thousand years. Wooden plows, ox-powered, and flat stones called metates, for grinding meal, were in use 30 centuries ago and still do service.

Honesty Required

Only merchants having a record of obeying the laws regarding the handling of supplies will be allowed to deal in coal, wood, liquid fuels, wheat, flour, sugar, automobile tires and many other commodities in Egypt.

Ship Beans to Allies

Although a record crop of field beans was produced in 1942, beans, peas, and lentils have been added to the list of rationed foods. More than 717,000,000 pounds of dry beans were delivered for shipment to Allied nations in recent months.

Telling time in the Navy is on the 24-hour system. Morning hours are from one to twelve, but afternoon hours are from 1300 to 2400 (midnight). So if you ask a sailor the time and he says "seventeen," subtract 12 and you get five o'clock in the afternoon. It's simpler if you ask him what cigarette he smokes. Chances are he'll say: "Camel," for Camel is the favorite cigarette among Navy men as well as among men in the Army, Marines, Coast Guard. (Based on actual sales records from service men's stores.) 24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove poisonous waste fluids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at nights, swelling.

Horse in Need of Conditioning Now

Important Factors In Care of Horses

Since the horse has returned to stay—for the duration at least—farmers should start now if they want to put their animals into top condition before spring work begins.

According to the department of animal pathology and hygiene at the University of Illinois college of agriculture, good feeding is essential, but consideration should also be given to methods of ridding horses of internal parasites. Bots live in the stomach, while roundworms, strongyles and other parasites live in the small and large intestine and, during certain stages of development, in other body tissues.

The best time to treat horses for parasites is during the winter months. Carbon disulphide is effective in ridding horses of bots and roundworms. Phenothiazine, the drug now so widely used for the control of internal parasites of sheep, is particularly effective in removing strongyles from the digestive tract.

There is, however, an element of danger in the treatment of horses for parasites. Such matters as correct dosage and methods of administration, as well as care given before and after treatment, require the skill and judgment of a veterinarian. A few farmers have used parasite control measures upon advice of a veterinarian for many years.

Two other things, trimming the feet and removing sharp corners from the teeth, should be taken care of before horses are harnessed for field work. These jobs can be done at the same time the horses are given treatment for parasites.

Hardwoods

At the U. S. Forest Products laboratory at Madison, Wis., new wood uses have been uncovered which have been adopted by industry. Among these are wood plastics, made by heating millwaste with acids which convert it into a molding powder for floortiles and switchboard panels.

Corrugating board for shipping containers is made from chestnut chips discarded after tannin is extracted. Black jack oak and red gum may be substituted as chestnut wood disappears through disease.

Over 200 recent buildings have utilized glued and laminated structural beams and arches which are made from cheap, low-grade small-sized boards put together under pressure. Prefabricated houses are being marketed with panels for walls, floors and roofs made from plywood glued to light frame.

Strong papers are being made for wrapping from maple, birch and aspen. Cellophane is made from pulped wood, treated chemically to convert it into jelly. This is filtered through narrow slits to become transparent sheets.

At a California lumber mill, red wood sawdust, chips and shavings are compacted under pressure into small logs sold for fireplaces, dining cars and ship galleys. Shredded redwood bark, known as Palco wool, is being marketed for insulation. When finished, it is a fluffy material resembling a mass of red hair.

More Farm Machinery

Success in meeting farm production goals for 1943 will be dependent to a great extent upon getting the last possible ounce of help from machinery. Every piece of power farm equipment should be given a general overhauling to make certain it will be ready to operate when needed. Efforts also should be made to make community work schedules for tools which will not be used full-time on the farms of their owners. All this will help our war effort.

PETER AND JOHN BECOME DISCIPLES OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—John 1:29-42; Mark 1:16-18.

GOLDEN TEXT—And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.—Mark 1:17.

Personal faith in Christ is the heart of Christian experience. Since persons are won by other persons it was vitally important that the Lord choose the right disciples at the very beginning of the Church. Outstanding among the twelve disciples were Peter and John, whose lives and letters we study during the next three months.

The manner in which they became disciples is of unusual interest—and is instructive as well. We will observe that our Lord is working in much the same way on the Peters and Johns of our own day. They came to Him by way of

I. Testimony—They Heard About Jesus (John 1:29-34, 41).

John, who modestly refrains from naming himself (v. 40), heard about Jesus from John the Baptist. His testimony is notable for its pointed presentation of Christ, and its unmistakable desire that they follow Him. John was an important man with a vigorous message, but he recognized that his only real business for God was to point men to Christ. He enjoyed having men follow him, but only that he might lead them to Jesus.

In doing Christian work we should learn so to bear our testimony that we may magnify Christ, and not ourselves. We must be careful to win men to Christ, and not to ourselves or our cause or church.

Peter was brought to Jesus by his brother Andrew. Andrew was a quiet, modest man of whom we do not read that he preached a single sermon. But he did do personal work (see John 6:8, 9; 12:21, 22). He has been called "Andrew the finder." May "his tribe" increase. We need more like him.

Hearing about Jesus is not enough. There must be the next step, the indispensable personal meeting with the Lord.

II. Experience—They Saw Jesus (John 1:35-39, 42).

The necessity of a personal experience with Christ is so clearly stated in Scripture that one can only marvel that it is so neglected in many churches today.

Neither John the Baptist nor, later, Andrew was content to tell about Jesus. They brought John and Peter to the Lord. John said, "Behold the Lamb of God" (v. 36); and Andrew "brought him to Jesus" (v. 42). These sum up the soul-winner's duty. We must bring our family, our friends, yes, the stranger with whom we deal, into the presence of Jesus.

He will look into their eyes and into their souls and see in them all the gifts and graces which may make them useful to Him (v. 42). John was the brother of James and Peter the brother of Andrew—just two humble fishermen in the sight of men. But Jesus saw in them two of the most useful men who have ever lived. Let us give Him a chance to deal with our friends and acquaintances.

Hearing and seeing are both excellent, but they lack one final step—and here it is—

III. Action—They Followed Jesus (John 1:40; Mark 1:16-20).

First of all they followed Jesus in becoming believers on Him as the Messiah. That experience of John's we find in John 1:40, and of Peter's (by inference) in verse 42. There is no salvation apart from that act of the will which follows a knowledge of Christ.

In the passage in Mark we find Him calling them to leave their secular calling as fishers of fish to follow Him and become fishers of men. Before they could become what He wanted them to be, they had to do something—rise up and follow Him. Their unquestioning response indicated their faith, but, more than that, it showed that they were the kind of obedient men who could be used of the Lord. Jesus might have called His disciples from the learned and the mighty. But one wonders whether they would have been willing to respond without argument, and to learn of Him without prejudice or preconceived ideas of theology.

God must often pass the mighty and the noble of this world, and call those who are foolish enough to believe Him and obey (read I Cor. 1:17-29). The reason is given there—"That no flesh should glory in his presence." The glory belongs to the Lord, not to His servants.

Because they did obey they became "fishers of men." He led them, trained them, encouraged them, blessed them, and used them.

A disciple is a "learner," but he is learning for a purpose. Learning for its own sake, as an ornament or a selfish pleasure, is always a sad thing, but with the disciple of Christ it cannot be that if he rightly knows Christ.

The disciple is to win other disciples. That is the very heart of Christian witness.

Hand-bowling gods high up in rubber trees whose rays go up with an audible pop. The pods shoot the shot of a pecan over considerable distance, and those the seed on for an 100 feet.

The French call rubber caoutchouc from an Indian term meaning "weep-tree."

Temperatures, appropriate and types of seeds as well as drying habit of vessels account for wide variations in milkweed from identical trees. These facts may account for a tree turning in from twenty to twenty-five thousand miles of service in Chicago, whereas from seven to eight thousand miles may be the mileage it will render in Texas.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are not to blame when over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes present, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!
